WASHINGTON COUNTY TO SEND LARGE DELEGATION TO STATE CONVENTION

PROPOSES SELL-OUT OF KEYSTONE PARTY TO GAIN PERSONAL DESIRES

Magnificent Program Prepared for Session of Sunday School Workers in Altoona.

INTEREST LOCALLY

Rev. Kerr, County Association President, Will Head Representation From This and Other Districts.

Washington county will in all probability send a large delegation to the 46th annual convention of the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association to be held at Altoona, from October 12 to 14 inclusive. Charleroi is expected to send nearly a dozen representatives from the different Sunday schools and this number will be swelled to much greater proportions from Washington, Monongahela, Donora and other districts.

Rev. G. G. Kerr, of Charleroi, the county Sabbath School president, will head the Washington county delegation, which will include 16 official representatives. Mrs. Mary L. Stewart, the county secretary, will attend.

Rev. Kerr who is in close touch with all matters pertaining to county and State Sunday school work, this morning expressed his opinion that the coming convention would be the greatest in the history of the State. A magnificent program has been prepared, among the speakers to be Rev. John F. Carson and S. Parker Cadman, Brooklyn pastors; Prof. Edward A. Seiner of Iowa, Hon. J. Frank Hanley, ex-Governor of Indiana, Mrs. Antoinette Lamoreaux, a child study specialist, Marion Lawrence, general secretary of the International Sunday School Association, and Dr. S. Camdem M. Coburn, noted teacher and discoverer, Allegheny college. All are persons of national and international reputation. Prof. E. O. Excell will be in charge of the musical part, and Alvin M. Roper will be the pianist. The convention will be rich in special features, among which will be conferences of various departments of Sunday School work.

The Charleroi Sunday Schools will likely appoint other delegates next Sunday or the Sunday following. Washington county is one of the leading Sunday School counties of the State, and has for sometime been one of two leading in the number of adult Bible classes. There are 17 Sunday School districts in the county.

Mrs. Elizabeth Kimmel

Word was received yesterday evening by Mrs. John Jennings of Washington avenue of the death of her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Kimmel, 84 years old, at her home in Indiana, Pa. The funeral will be held Wednesday, and Mrs. Jennings left this morning with her husband and sons to attend it. Besides the one daughter living there are three other daughters and one son living.

J. E. Hazlett and family are leaving tonight for Harrisburg to attend the funeral of his sister, Mrs. Edward W. Schreffer.

Is Member of Sousa's Band

Bassoon Player in Noted Organization Visits Relatives in Charleroi.

C. Decker, a member of Sousa's Band, which is playing at Pittsburgh this week at the Pittsburgh Exposition, was a visitor in Charleroi over Sunday with his cousin, Peter Decker of 119 Fallowfield avenue. Mr. Decker plays the bassoon in the band. He comes from a family of musicians, and his cousin living in Charleroi is also somewhat of a musician. He plays the flute in the Methodist Episcopal orchestra, and has been a member of others of the best musical organizations of this vicinity. Mr. Decker went back to Pittsburgh yesterday morning to participate in the afternoon concert.

MARITAL WOES AIRED AT THE COUNTY SEAT

Desertion Claimed by Two Persons in Applying for Separation.

Troubles of four mismatched couples found their way into court yesterday. Two desertion cases, in which one of the libellants is the wife, and two reports of examiners in which the husbands complain, were filed.

Alice Brooks of Washington alleges that her husband, George D. Brooks deserted her. They formerly lived in Charleroi. Nettie V. Beatty of East Pike Run alleges cruel treatment in the suit against her husband, A. P. Beatty. The report of the examiner was filed in the case of John W. Morris against his wife Mary Elizabeth Morris, alleging desertion, and the case has been placed on argument. William Bevard of Monongahela, has asked for a divorce from his wife Laura F. Bevard, now declared to be in Alabama. She is alleged to have become a religious fanatic thus causing trouble between herself and husband. The examiners' report was filed.

Had Disagreement

For fighting on the street two Italians were arrested last night and will be given a hearing tonight. The disagreement occurred on Fallowfield avenue near Sixth street.

Jesse Richey and Fred Kyle, the latter of Belle Vernon, left this morning for Washington in the latter's automobile where they will enroll as students at Washington and Jefferson college.

The Stewart Millinery will have their Fall Opening Thursday afternoon and evening, September 22. A fine display of Pattern Hats and all the new and attractive things in millinery will be shown. Come and see them. 417 Fallowfield avenue, Charleroi, Pa. 3514

CRUSHED SKULL CAUSES DEATH OF BALL PLAYER

Captain of Monongahela Church League Penitent Winners Victim of Accident in Mills.

Charles Carazola a baseball player, 21 years old, of Monongahela, died yesterday at the Memorial hospital at that place as a result of injuries received three weeks ago at the Liggett Spring and Axle works at Axelton. Carazola's skull was crushed by an axle while he was engaged in the discharge of his duties.

Carazola was captain and manager of the Catholic team of the Monongahela Church League, his team winning the championship. On Saturday the members of the league held a meeting and arranged for two benefit games to be played between the champion Catholic nine and an all star team to be picked from the other teams. His death has brought about a postponement of the arrangements.

The funeral of the unfortunate young man will occur Wednesday and all of the players of the six teams, together with the league officials, will attend the funeral as a body. Carazola was a popular young man and his death has occasioned keen regret.

ELDORA TO CLOSE MONDAY AFTER SUCCESSFUL SEASON

Park Was Popular During Past Season Among Churches and Clubs for Picnics and Outings.

After a most successful season Eldora Park will close on Monday, September 26, six days hence. The park has had a very busy season this year, and the arrival of fall weather causing it to close is generally regretted by its large number of patrons.

This year there have been possibly more picnics and outings of various church and fraternal organizations than during any previous season, and the park has been one of the most popular resorts in this part of the country.

The closing events of the season will be the C. T. A. U. dance tonight, North Charleroi Fire Department's picnic on Wednesday, the Donora Fire Department's dance on Wednesday evening, the Friday and Saturday evening dances and the colored Knight's of Pythias picnic on Monday. Tom P. Sloan is the park manager and his assistant is Roy Sharpnack.

LOCAL GUN CLUB ATTENDING SHOOT

Sixth Tournament Being Held Today in Fayette County Town.

Members of the Charleroi Gun Club are in attendance today at the sixth annual tournament of the Western Pennsylvania Trap Shooters League at Fairchance. The League includes clubs from Dravosburg, Aspinwall, Butler, Pittsburgh, Charleroi, Canonsburg, Belle Vernon, Fairchance, Sewickly, Washington, Manon, Brownsville and McKeesport and representatives of nearly every club are present. The Brownsville club has been leading the league and today's shoot being the last the winner of this will be determined.

BACK TO OLD HOME AFTER MANY YEARS

Officer George McEldowney to Visit Former Homestead in West Virginia.

Patrolman George McEldowney with his wife and grandson, Harry McEldowney, left this morning for Carmichaels, where they will visit at the fair for a day and then go to West Virginia to Mr. McEldowney's old home at Littleton Station to spend a week. Mr. McEldowney has not visited at his old home for nearly 35 years and anticipates with pleasure getting back to the old place.

Household Goods for Sale
General assortment of household goods for sale at buyers' own price. Am leaving for the West and am anxious to sell. Sale from Sept 19 to 24. Your chance for bargains. John Shanton, 504 Meadow avenue. 3513

LARGE FRUIT IS RAISED IN WEST

Former Charleroi Man Sends Sample of Apples From Oregon Orchard.

Borough Clerk Ira L. Nickeson today received from his son-in-law, L. R. Carter, formerly of Charleroi a large apple sent from Albion, Oregon, and the fruit is now being displayed in a window of Piper's Pharmacy. It is only a fair sample of the fruit raised in the western State, and is so large that it will not fit in a strawberry basket. Mr. Carter is employed as a carpenter at Albion.

COUNCIL TO CLEAN UP MONTH'S WORK

For the purpose of finishing up monthly business council will hold an adjourned session today. As far as is known there is nothing important scheduled to be taken up, nearly all business having been cleaned up.

Entertainer Coming

Arthur Love, the popular entertainer of Pittsburgh will give an entertainment at the First Christian church of Belle Vernon on Tuesday evening, September 27. Love plays, sings, recites, and it is stated does all with equal ability. The admission will be for adults 25 cents and for children 15 cents.

Rink Open

The skating rink has been opened for the season under the management of Shaner Blythe, and there will be skating every Wednesday and Saturday evening.

Ask for a book of rules governing the Revolutionary quilt Contest now on at Berryman's. 3512

Who Wants a Job Teaching School?

Vacancy in First Primary Grade at Crest Avenue Building Unfilled.

There is a good job for somebody who wants to teach in the Charleroi schools. A few days ago the first primary grade of the Crest avenue schools was divided and another room put into use of the former Catholic building. This created a vacancy in the teaching corps. Miss Rosetta Rodgers of Fallowfield township was secured for the time being to fill in, and a teacher is to be elected as soon as there are some applicants. Miss Rodgers is substituting and the job is still open.

EXCITING RACE MEET PROMISED AT CARMICHAELS

Several Valley Horses Entered for Greene County Races This Week.

Indications are that the Carmichaels Fair this year will be greater than ever before in its history. The fair opens today and will continue for four days, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Racing as usual will be the feature, although the farm exhibits and industrial exhibits will claim considerable attention.

There will be three days of racing, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. There are a large number of entries from all parts of the country. Wednesday there will be two races, the 2:30 trot and the 2:27 pace, the purses being $300. Thursday there will be a 2:19 trot, a free for all pace, and a 2:23 pace for purses of $400, $350 and $400 respectively. Friday, for purses of $400, $400 and $350, there will be a 2:15 trot, a 2:18 pace and a 2:25 trot.

From this section have been entered the following horses in various events: "Joe," John Small, Belle Vernon; "Bessie Willis," I. C. McKay, of Fayette City; "Nunda," O. S. Hornbake, Coal Centre; "Buster," Clarence Luse, Belle Vernon; Prince Alcantara, M. H. Bamford, Donora, and "Perfection," J. G. Elliott, Brownsville.

Mr. and Mrs. John Jennings and sons Wilbur and Harper left today for Indiana to attend the funeral of Mrs. Jennings' mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Kimmel, who died yesterday.

Karl Keffer was a business visitor this morning in Donora.

Mrs. T. W. Mancha, recently of Michigan, is the new teacher in the shorthand department of Douglas Business college to succeed Miss Viola Addis, who resigned to take a position in a large wholesale firm in Uniontown.

George F. Rylands of the Wellington Hotel has gone to West Baden for the benefit of his health.

Acheson Declared to be Pulling Strings to Get Democrats to Join New Party.

FLINN TO BE ANGEL

Pittsburg Political Sharp May Aid New Movement if Not Too Much Afflicted With Cold Feet.

An article dated from the county seat published this morning in the Pittsburg Gazette Times states that when Senator Webster Grim, Democratic nominee for Governor of Pennsylvania, was at Washington last Thursday, campaigning, he was greeted at the railroad station by former Congressman Ernest F. Acheson, who makes some pretensions to being a Republican. That much has been printed. But the fact that Acheson led Mr. Grim aside and poured a tempting proposition into his ear is just now leaking out.

Acheson is moving heaven and earth to defeat the Republican party. He is now for the Keystone ticket, which has W. H. Berry at its head for Governor. Berry, however, is making a fizzle of his campaign and nobody understands this better than Acheson. That is why the latter urged upon Mr. Grim that the Democrats and Keystone get together. He suggested that if Grim and his party would act in harmony with the Keystone outfit there would be some chance of success.

He explained that efforts had been made to induce William Flinn of Pittsburg to help out Berry and his outfit, but that Mr. Flinn didn't look on the game as a safe investment, as long as there were two anti-Republican tickets in the field. Mr. Flinn, however, intimated that his cold feet would get warm if a combination could be effected.

Mr. Acheson understood full well that Mr. Grim reiterated his position—that Grim would under no circumstances withdraw. Acheson, therefore, proposed that if Grim and his party would join with the Keystone people in supporting their candidate for United States Senator, whose name Acheson was careful not to disclose, Berry would be withdrawn and the Keystone party would turn in for Grim's candidacy.

Acheson explained that whatever was to be done must be done quickly, as the Keystone managers were about to complete their endorsements of candidates for the Legislature, arrange to finance their State campaign, etc., and besides, if Berry had to be taken down, the sooner this was accomplished the better. He added that if this deal could be brought about, while he was not authorized to speak for Flinn, he felt practically certain that the latter would come into the fight and help it along in his usual way. Something of this may be heard from Philadelphia during the week, as the Keystone boxes are conferring on the composition of their various tickets.

Incidentally, it is reported that a movement is afoot to withdraw both Grim and Berry and make George W. Guthrie, formerly mayor of Pittsburg, (Continued on fourth page.)

Acheson's Insincerity

The story of the deal which former Congressman E. F. Acheson is alleged to have put up to Webster Grim, Democratic candidate for Governor,
published elsewhere in this issue,
when the latter visited Washington
last week, bears the earmarks of truth. Mr. Acheson is too shrewd a politician not to be aware of the fact that Berry has no earthly show of an election, and the proposition for the Democratic and Keystone candidates to get together and combine on a single ticket is the kind of politics
that can be played to win, even through the issues on which the Keystone party was alleged to be founded.
It would have to be abandoned. While a fusion of the Democratic party and the Keystone crowd would have to result in the abandonment of local option, which is not being worked very strong anywhere, except in districts where that sentiment prevails,
this would not bother Mr. Acheson
any, provided he had a fighting
chance to "lick the unmentionables
that licked him."

Mr. Acheson's fine Italian hand in political intrigue is further shown by the alleged proposition to the Democrats and Keystone crowd to get together and endorse candidates for the Legislature in the hope of being able to elect a United States Senator.
The fact that such a combination
might result in the selection of a Senator hostile to the interests of Washington county does not seem to concern
Mr. Acheson. All that he cares for
is to defeat the Republican party.
The fact that the proposed Congressional, Senatorial and Legislative endorsements of the Keystone party
for this district are put up to a central committee in Philadelphia for final action, is the most flagrant exhibition of arbitrary political distastorship
that has ever been displayed in this State. However, it is in keeping with Mr. Acheson's antics when he dictated the policies of Washington county, and in the absence of any primary law stated and nominated all county candidates in the town opposition to himself as a candidate for Congress.

Presumably the endorsements are subject to the approval of the Van Valkenburg and Flinn interests of Philadelphia on the one hand and Pittsburg on the other. If any chance for defeating Senator Oliver
can be shown these interest can be de-

ended upon to "loosen up" financially,
and as the Keystone party is badly in need of funds, the Congressional, Senatorial and Legislative endorsements
can be traded as assets for cash.
The fact that such deals are in the wind shows that not only Mr. Acheson and his two newspaper organs,
the Observer and Reporter, as well as the leaders of the Keystone movement, are utterly devoid of sincerity
in the interests of reform in their political actions.

Two Sides

The Monessen Independent "knocks"
Governor Stuart for not signing a garnishee bill in the interests of merchants and business people generally. This bill would give creditors the power to attach the wages of laboring people who were in their debt, and to virtually mortgage the labor of the workingman who through sickness or misfortune had gotten behind, and was unable to pay up in full. The Independent asserts that because of his action in refusing to sign this bill Governor Stuart is not a friend of the merchant or honest
toiler.

It was exactly in the interests
of the honest toiler that Governor
Stuart refused to sign the garnishee
bill. This measure was bitterly opposed by the United Mine Workers,
and President Francis Feehan of District No. 5 and other district officials
throughout the State went personally to Harrisburg to work against the bill. By miners it was regarded as a "snake" by which the company
stores could still further get a hold on the employees, and for that reason it was bitterly opposed. That the Governor took heed of the protests is evidence that his action was governed by the equity of the case. While merchants and business people should be safeguarded as much as possible
against swindlers and deadbeats, the matter of credits is purely optional,
and it is the wisdom displayed in this branch that usually marks the success
or failure of business enterprises.
In refusing to sign the garnishee
bill Governor Stuart proved himself a friend of the toiler instead of an enemy, as the Independent asserts.

Small Industries

As the census returns of the various cities are being made public, Pittsburg is beginning to realize more than ever that industrially she has been losing ground. She has relied so much on her position as a steel and iron manufacturing centre, and felt so strongly entrenched, that little or no heed was given to the small concerns which make up an aggregate.
These have been allowed to drift elsewhere, and now when the census
returns are coming in it is learned that the most of the smaller cities
have made greater industrial progress than Pittsburg. With no big basic industries these cities have gone after all the small industries they could land, and the result is much better conditions and more assured prosperity than where a community depends upon a single line of industry.

Pittsburg has awakened to her neglect, and is now going after more industries. Her neighbor, Cleveland, with one side shut off by water, has outstripped even Greater Pittsburg in population, and ranks away up industrially. Cleveland has nothing big in the way of manufactures like Pittsburg, yet on investigation it will be found that the Flower City is big in the aggregate of a whole lot of important industries, which diffuse employment and prosperity among a large class of people. This is so diversified that a large proportion of them continue in operation when big industries are depressed.

This is the policy for any town to follow—to get all the small concerns
it can. Ten little "holes in the wall" that employ half a dozen hands
each, are better than a single factory that employs fifty people. The little concerns are a whole lot easier to get
than the big ones, and require no
bonuses or coddling to induce them to locate here. This is the policy that is making the small cities and hustling towns great.

Roscoe has discovered that its streets are in need of paving. Peary, Columbus and the rest of the discoverers may now pass on to a back seat.

ELECTRIC SPARKS

Speaking of the constitution of the United States, just what is it, anyhow?

A woman's marriage may be considered a success if she is getting above a hundred dollars a month alimony.

A piano is essentially a better investment than an automobile. It doesn't wear out so many tires. The only difference in favor of the latter is that it doesn't take quite so long
to learn how to run one as it does a piano.

The man who predicts a hard winter
generally gets what he anticipates,
according to his complaints.

It's sort of inconvenient to have a fortune because then you can't tell who your friends are.

If moving a trunk is likely to end
in your own death and the destruction
of a house, as it did with Monessen
foreigners, safety would commend the use of a suit case.

Ever notice how lonely a single man looks among a bunch of newly married men? Also, did you ever notice how lonely a newly married man looks in a crowd of advocates of single blessedness?

PICKED UP IN PASSING

"What makes me weary," said a Charleroi citizen, "is the petty arguments some of the few detractors of John K. Tener are putting up by asking, 'What has Tener ever done
for Charleroi?' If any one of them were to put the question to me I would point to the Macbeth-Evans
chimney factory; to the Hussy-Binns
shovel factory; to the Imperial bottle
factory; to the old Bamford silk mill
building, now used by the Macbeth-Evans people in the manufacture of auto and lamp lenses; to the car barn
of the Pittsburgh Railway company;
to the Monessen bridge; to the Westside Street car line; to the church buildings in town; to the magnificent bank
buildings, and to the prosperous condition of the town of Charleroi generally, to all of which Mr. Tener contributed money, time and energy to promote or to bring here, in company
with other broad minded citizens—not
the few who are doing petty knocking now. I could also name many successful business men in the town whom Mr. Tener helped and aided over in times of financial stress in his capacity as a banking officer, when if the strict rules of banking has been applied these men would have gone
under. These are some of the things
John K. Tener has done for Charleroi
and the community around it. Mr.
Tener does not herald this to the four winds, but its neighbors and friends
know it, and that is why he gets such overwhelming support from his home town, for which he has been actively identified in every moment for the public uplift.

"In answer to the question, 'What did Tener do in Congress?' I would reply that in his single term in that body, as a member of the Rivers and Harbors committee, he worked assiduously for the project of canalizing the Ohio river, and the Government was committed during his term to a policy
of prosecuting and completing this work in twelve years' time, a policy
for which those interested in inland water ways improvement had labored
years previously in vain, and which will keep the river miner working 12 months instead of 4 or 6. This was accomplished chiefly through the efforts of the Rivers and Harbors committee. At the special session of Congress called to revise the tariff
Mr. Tener was instrumental in getting the duty increased on small sizes of plate glass, thereby permitting the Pittsburg Plate Glass company and all other manufacturers of the product

to compete with the Belgian product.
This alone directly benefits every man,
woman and child in Charleroi, as conditions, when the Charleroi Plate Glass factory was idle six or seven months a couple of years ago, are of
too recent occurrence to be remembered with comfort. In addition Mr.
Tener worked hard in the interests of the Washington county wool growers' association, who sent a committee to the national capital to protest against the attempt to break down their industry. In the matter of direct accomplishment for the good of his district, and the whole country generally,
Mr. Tener accomplished infinitely more than usually falls to the lot of a novice in Congress."

"I wanted a study table for the children this winter," said a Charleroi woman recently, "and the natural thing that suggested itself was a mission library table. When I priced these articles and found that they cost anywhere from $20 up to $30
for a modest appearing piece, I began to devise ways and means to satisfy my wants for less money. Finally I purchased an ordinary kitchen table
at one of the local furniture stores for $2. It had an unpainted top 26 by 42 inches, but it stood solidly and was large enough for the purpose. Then I bought a 30 cent can of Chi-Namel
mission stain, and with a brush loaned
me by a neighbor, painted the table
a couple of coats. Next I bought another 30 cent can of polishing wax,
and with some fine sand paper rubbed
the top of the table until it was smooth
as glass. Then I applied a couple of coats of the polish, rubbing it in well with a cloth. Now I have as nice a mission table as you can see anywhere, the only difference being that it does not have square legs. It's just the thing for the children to sit around and study their lessons evenings, and it only cost $2.60, not counting labor, which was not arduous."

"I wonder if school teachers have any idea how they load us up with work," said a lad who attends a near by academy, a day or two ago.
"After giving us our schedule of studies the professor made the customary spiel of how much home study
we should devote, so many hours to each one, and when he was through one of the boys who kept tab just for curiosity, discovered that if we gave the allotted time to each study we would put it twenty-six and a half hours a day. Now we more than ever realize that the 'prof' is articulating through his headgear when he gives us a spiel about devoting all our spare time to study."

BURNS, CUTS, BRUISES

San Cura Ointment Stops Pain
at Once, Draws Out all Poisons, and Heals
Promptly

In all the world there is no ointment, no liniment, no remedy for burns, cuts and bruises that can compare with the antiseptic ointment
called San Cura.

Every person ought to have a jar
on hand, it is the first and best aid to the injured in case of accident, and is the ideal remedy for so many other distressing and painful ailments besides.

For example; it is guaranteed by
W. F. Hennings to cure itching, bleeding and protruding piles,
eczema, tetter, ulcers, salt rheum,
boils, carbuncles and pimples, or money back.

In case of old or running sores, no matter how long standing, a few poultices of San Cura ointment will draw
out every particle of poison, and leave
it in such a thoroughly antiseptic condition that the sore will heal, never
to break open again.

We advise every reader to get a jar
of San Cura ointment today and keep it ready for an accident or emergency
that may happen. 25 cents and 50 cents at W. F. Hennings or the money back plan.

SOAP FOR THE SCALP.

San Cura Soap is delightful for shampooing, because it is full of antiseptic properties that banish the germs of dandruff and other impurities from the scalp. It cures pimples and blackheads too. 25 cents a cake at Hennings.

THE DIAMOND CUTTER.

His Skill Has Much to Do With the Brilliance of the Gem.

When the expert looks at a diamond
he can tell you in a moment where it came from and even whether it was cut lately or some years ago. He knows by its color whence it comes
for the color of the Brazilian diamond
differs from that of the South African,
and even in South Africa different colors are found in different mines.
In the rough the diamond has little brilliance, for there is a crust that must be cut away before it can properly refract the light, and it is this power of refraction which makes the brilliance of a diamond and has everything to do with its value in the market. The skill of the diamond cutter has much to do with bringing out this brilliance. He must do the most
he can with the rough stone before it is lost as little as possible of the precious weight in the stone.

Diamonds are found in all kinds of queer shapes, for the carbon may be in any position while being crystallized, and the act of crystallization may affect only parts of that carbon. When the expert cutter has a rough diamond
before him he judges almost instantly
how it will cut to the greatest advantage. If it inclines to the pear shape he will make a pear shaped diamond of it. If it be square or round
the cutting will follow the natural lines
as closely as possible, so that the loss
may be reduced to a minimum.

To make the stone as brilliant as possible the diamond cutter cuts many facets so as to refract the light from as many points as he can. A full cut brilliant has at least forty-eight facets,
and so expert are the cutters that they often cut diamonds so small that it requires a hundred to weigh a carat.
Each has forty-eight facets.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

FILIAL DUTY.

An Example From the Chinese of a Good Little Boy.

In China the "Book of Filial Duty"
has been employed to instruct the young for the last 2,500 years. In it are twenty-four examples for good boys. What these examples are like may be understood from the story of Wu Meng, example No. 20. Wu Meng
it seems, was very obedient to his parents. One day at the age of eight
he noticed with pain that the mosquitoes annoyed his parents while they were trying to sleep. Presently he hit upon a plan to rescue them.

Says the author of this classic: "The buzzing of the mosquitoes sounds like
'ying ying,' and their united hum is almost equal to thunder. His tired
parents are reclining on their bed,
their countenances already sunk in slumber. Legions of mosquitoes fiercely attack them, alternately retreating and advancing. The insects disturb the dreaming sleepers, and with annoyance they toss from side to side."
"Wu sees them sucking his parents'
blood, which causes his heart to grieve. His flesh, he thinks, can be easily pierced, but that of his parents is hard to penetrate. Lying on the bed, he threw off his clothes, and soon,
feeling the pain of their attacks, he cried, 'I have no dread of you, nor have you any reason to fear me!'
"Although I have a fan, I will not use it, nor will I strike you with my hand. I will lie very quiet and let you gorge to the full."
Thus did the parents of Wu Meng
get a chance to sleep in peace.

First Wheel Clock.

Some say that Archimedes made the first wheel clock as early as 200 B. C.
Others give credit to Wallingford, who lived so late as the beginning of the fourteenth century. But the most perfect water clocks were, long before the latter period, furnished with wheels,
so that the only improvement was the substitution of a solid body to act as a moving weight instead of water. It is not to be wondered at that the application of a weight to clocks as a moving power should attract so little attention, as water and sand were undoubtedly thought more convenient by contemporary writers. The oldest complete clock moved by weights is probably that sent by the sultan of Turkey
to Frederick II. in 1232. In the thirteenth century many of the church
steeples in Italy were furnished with clocks moved by weights, which struck
the hours. Hole of Nuremberg is supposed to have constructed the first watch in 1500, and to him must also be given the credit of the spring clock.
The fusee was probably invented in England about the end of the sixteenth century. But it was not until the middle of the seventeenth century
that the pendulum was first applied to clocks by Huyghens.

The Origin of the "Marseillaise."

In the reign of terror under Freron
and Barras, when hundreds of victims were carved by the guillotine and the people rose against the aristocracy, was born the hymn of France, composed by Rouget de l'Isle. He was an officer of engineers and at a banquet was asked to compose a war
song. He wrote it in his room that night before going to bed, and the next morning his hostess, the wife of the mayor of Strassburg, tried it on a piano, and in the afternoon the orchestra of the theater played it in the square of Strassburg, where it created much excitement and gathered many volunteers. Rouget called it a song for the Army of the Rhine, but subsequently it was sung by a regiment of volunteers, mostly assassins, who marched out of Marseilles to Paris,
where it was appropriated by the capital and called the "Hymne des Marseil-lais." But Joseph Rouget, the author, died in poverty.—Deslier Welch in Harper's Magazine.

GOOD WAY TO USE HYOMEI FOR CATARRH

Besides breathing through the inhaler a few times a day, many catarrh sufferers writes that they find inhaling Hyomei, pronounce it Hig-ome, from a bowl of steaming water
each night before retiring a great aid
in curing stubborn cases.

Fill a bowl half full of boiling water; pour into the water a teaspoonful of Hyomei, cover head and bowl with a towel, and breathe
through nose and mouth the pleasant,
medicated, antiseptic and healing
vapor that arises.

This method relieves that stuffiness
at once and makes your head feel fine.
You can get a bottle of Hyomei at Piper Bros. and druggists everywhere for only 50 cents. Ask for extra bottle Hyomei inhalant.

But bear in mind that Hyomei outfit which includes inhaler and bottle
of Hyomei costs $1.00.

Hyomei is guaranteed by Piper Bros. and druggists everywhere to cure catarrh, sore throat, coughs,
colds, asthma and croup, or money
back. Try it on that generous basis.

Lines of Fight Are Now Drawn

Candidate Tener, With a United Party, Defying a Confused and Whipped Enemy

MEASLY PRICE FOR VOTES

The "Hollower Than Thou" Fellows Would Buy the Prohibition Voters at 20 Cents Per Head—Facts For the Farmers.

While the gubernatorial campaign in Pennsylvania has just fairly started the lines along which the contest will be fought have been drawn distinctly and there seems absolutely no question as to the overwhelming victory of John K. Tener and his associates on the regular Republican ticket. Even his opponents have not attempted to conceal the enthusiasm with which Mr. Tener has been received by the voters in those sections of the State in which he has visited since the formal opening of the contest at Charleroi, his home town, about three weeks ago. He has already firmly established himself in the affections of his party followers in every section of the State and his every appeal has been to the sane and sensible judgment of the voters. He has proven himself big from every possible viewpoint. He has pledged himself and his administration to good government and a continuation of the policies which have made the administration of Governor Edwin S. Stuart one of the very best Pennsylvania has ever had. Mr. Tener has appealed unselfishly for a continuation in State and nation of the Republican policy of Protection and Prosperity and he has already developed the very important fact that there is less strife in the Republican ranks in the pending campaign than there has been in any State contest in a decade. There is, of course, in all parties a certain element which regards party lines at least carelessly. That condition is neither strange nor important. It is a fixed condition. It is only fair to assume that as a condition it is neither larger nor smaller this year than it was in the last gubernatorial campaign in this State. If there has been any change it must be accepted as being smaller. In that campaign Governor Stuart polled as the regular Republican candidate 501,818 votes and Lewis Emery, Jr., his opponent, the candidate of five different parties and representing by those parties the combined policies of all the elements not in harmony with the policies and principles of the regular Republican party, just 458,054 votes. In the pending contest the five parties contributing their full and united force to Mr. Emery have five candidates. Not any of those parties is at war with the candidates, the policies or the principles of the regular Republican candidates but all of them are at war, and a grim war it is with the candidate, the policy and the party management of the regular Democratic party which in the Stuart-Emery campaign contributed 301,747 of the total vote cast for Mr. Emery. With the Republican party standing in unbroken column behind its justly popular candidates and facing an enemy engaged in a guerilla warfare upon itself, with extermination the well known and well defined purpose, the final outcome in the contest cannot be justly made a matter of even friendly dispute. W. H. Berry, the candidate of the Keystone or Keyhole or Keystone party, made up exclusively of the "hollier than thou" fellows, is going hither and thither, up and down the State, parading his personal grievances and deploring the awful fact that he was beaten out of the Democratic nomination for Governor by the delegates to the Allentown convention. His managers have been caught red handed, in a blundering effort to bribe the candidate of the Prohibition party to retire from the contest and give to the really and wholly honest Berry the votes of the Prohibition party. The bribe offered by the "hollier than thou" fellows to the Prohibition candidate amounted to $5,000. In the Stuart-Emery campaign, the Prohibition party polled 24,793 votes and with the cold cash, begged about and contributed to advance the cause of general righteousness, the evident purpose was to buy these 24,793 votes at the munificent sum of twenty and one-half cents per head, certainly a rather shabby estimate to put upon voters of any grade and a ridiculously low price to offer for members of a party which stood for a principle long before the "hollier than thou" fellows deserted the parties which had originally catapulted them into the limelight. On the other hand, Webster Grim, the candidate of the regular Democratic organization, through well sustained fear of being the third man in the race, finds it necessary as he moves about the State to assault every other candidate and the policies and principles they represent and in his campaign of vilification and abuse he is seeking to do that no regular organization Democrat shall lend himself to the advancement of the ambitions of Candidate Berry whom Grim describes as arrogant, selfish and interested only as a professional place hunter.

In the meantime Mr. Tener's display is commending him to all the voters. He is standing for his party and upon his party's platform. He shares with the people generally absolute confidence in Governor Stuart's administration and he is pledging him self on every possible occasion to give to the State a duplicate of the administration which has been conspicuously successful.

In a recent speech at Allentown, Mr. Tener stated other interesting things about his administration of himself as a candidate.

"I am not certain why the Republican policy should not continue to be successful. It can recall the situation, ten years ago you will remember that it is very much as it is today. There are those who are attacking us today but as they attacked S. Stuart, but I am glad to say that the history of the administration has left them no ground to stand upon. I trust that in the event of the election of this ticket that in the performance of our duties we will live up to the degree to the standard set by Governor Stuart."

"All the departments of the State the administration has served fairly, energetically and fearlessly for the benefit of the whole people, and it will be my purpose in the event of my election to pursue that same policy and to enlarge upon it and to better it, if possible."

"I think it is time for Pennsylvania not to be considered among the first States of the Union, but to be considered the very first State of our Union."

Mr. Tener realizes that he is a good citizen of a great State. The other candidates seem determined to convince the world that they are great citizens in a very measly commonwealth.

At the Allentown meeting Congressman Reynolds, the Republican candidate for Lieutenant governor, said to the farmers:

"I have here a little table which I think is worth reading to you, taken from the records of the Bureau of Labor at Washington. It says that a bushel of corn in 1897 would purchase 7 pounds of sugar; now it will purchase 16 pounds of sugar; 12 years ago a bushel of corn would purchase 5 gallons of illuminating oil now it will purchase 11 gallons. Expressed in purchasing value of coffee in 1897 a bushel of corn would purchase 3 pounds of coffee, and now it will purchase 4 pounds; a bushel of corn in 1897 would purchase 18 pounds of barbed wire with which to fence the farm; today it will purchase 33 pounds. Since the farmer owes this prosperous condition to the policies of the Republican party why should he vote against the Republican ticket?"

That, indeed, is a very pertinent question and many others aside from the Republican candidates are asking themselves the same manner of questions.

RACE WAGERS IN INDIA.

Native's Method of Choosing a Winner and Making Bets.

The native of India wagers his money according to the colors worn by the jockeys and takes no heed of the merits of the horses, or he who back a horse ridden by his favorite jockey, no matter whether the animal is a rank outsider or not.

His ideas of gambling, in fact, are distinctly novel. Some of the more wealthy Indians form rings and back every horse in the race, thus gaining the satisfaction of getting a winner every time. It is really only of late years that the native of India has become a habitual gambler on the turf and nowadays the bulk of the betting of the various racing centers in India is done by natives. Indeed, the authorities are somewhat concerned about the growth of the betting which takes place among Indian natives, it being asserted that as many as thirty lacs of rupees (about $3,000,000) is lost in the course of a season.

The ignorant masses have not a great deal of actual money to wager, but so badly bitten are many of them with the craze for betting at race meetings that they frequently wager what little property they possess on a horse, and if they lose they simply replace their loss by stealing a neighbor's goods. The consequence is that when the racing season comes around the police are kept very busy dealing with cases of petty larceny and other crimes involving loss of property.—London Tit-Bits.

Knighted Actors.

It is an odd fact that of the English actors knighted all but one had first to legalize the names under which they had won fame. The question arose with the first proposition to confer knighthood on a gypsy. It would be absurd so to honor one John Henry Brodribb. Yet legally no such person as "Henry Irving" existed. No such obstacle had to be overcome when, on the occasion of Victoria's diamond jubilee, Squire Lamcroft knelt before his queen and arose sir squire. However, the three actors knighted by King Edward bore cognomens of their own invention. Sir Charles Wyndham was born Culverwell, and Sir John Hare, Fair. As for Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree, his brilliant wife once put it "Tree is a fantastic thing we just tacked on. We're all plain Beerbohms—plain as brother Max!"—Argonaut.

The Old English Prize Ring.

In the latter days of the English prize ring innumerable expedients had to be devised to bring off a fight. A favorite plan was to pitch the ring on the borders of two counties, so that the question of magisterial jurisdiction might be rendered difficult. Another plan was to charter a steamboat and proceed down the Thames to some lonely police forsaken spot in the marshes of Essex. For the memorable contest between Sayers and Heenan in 1890 a special train was run from London bridge to a secret destination. But the passengers, who comprised members of parliament, peers, pickpockets, pugilists, clergy and, it is said, a few bishops, cheerfully took tickets simply marked "excursion." They presently found themselves near Farnborough, in Surrey, where the fight occurred.—London Chronicle.

Miss Viola Darby left yesterday for Ligonier where she will take a position as head milliner in a large millinery establishment.

London's Big Ben.

Why is the large bell in the tower of the house of parliament in London called Big Ben? The average Londoner himself has no idea how it got its name. When the building was designed Sir Benjamin Hall had a great deal to do with carrying out the plans of the architects, being high commissioner of public works, and his coworkers appreciated the fact that to him the city of London was largely indebted. So when the question came up in parliament as to the name of the enormous bell that was to be hung in the tower a member shouted, "Why not call it Big Ben?" This suggestion was received with much applause as well as with roars of laughter, for Sir Benjamin was an enormous man, both in height and girth, and had often been called Big Ben. From that day on the bell whose peal every Londoner knows has been known only as Big Ben. Harper's Weekly.

Mighty in Titles.

The ruler of Turkey, in addition to the titles sultan and kha-khan (high prince and lord of lords), also claims sovereignty over most districts, towns, cities and states in the orient, specifying each by name and setting out in each of his various titles "all the forts, citadels, palaces and neighborhood thereof" in regular legal form. His official designation ends, "Sovereign also of diverse nations, states, peoples and races on the face of the earth." All this is in addition to his high position as "head of the faithful" and "supreme lord of all the followers of the prophet," "direct and only lieutenant on earth of Mohammed."

Landman and Sailor.

To the landman the sea must always possess dangers that to the sailor appear only as casual phenomena upon which to exercise his skill. The prayer book has a special petition for the safety of those who go down to the sea in ships, and every one who ventures to leave the shore goes forth with a consciousness of awe at his own daring. Yet in the intricate complexity of modern civilization, sailors on land and safety at sea have watched by no means with equal steps. Every morning brings us some story of death or accident on land, while the great passenger ships continue to go on in motionless regularity, bringing no reports more startling than those of high seas that have kept them from making new records. With the present madness for speed and its attendant recklessness, our streets demand constant alertness if one would cross them with safety. Speed at sea has come through larger and more stoutly constructed ships. So the familiar old story of the sailorman at sea in a storm who, serene in his consciousness of ample sea room, pleasantly ejaculated, "God help the poor folks ashore tonight!" is not wholly fantastic. Frank Tooker in Century.

Sardou's Quip.

"Victorien Sardou hated shams," said a New York theatrical manager. "If you tried to impose on him he would call you down."
"At the Ambigu during a rehearsal he said he doubted an actor's statement that he had given forty hours of study to his lines."
"You doubt me?" said the actor hotly. "I assure you, M. Sardou, I have never lied but twice in my life."
"Sardou smiled dryly."
"Then this makes thrice, eh?" said he.

BILL LANGE'S FEAT.

One of the Famous Old Outfielders. Sensational Catches.

The greatest individual feat ever performed was one by which Bill Lange saved a game for Chicago and $200 for himself in Washington in 1895. There is an old story connected with the play. Lange had missed a train in Boston two days before, failed to reach New York in time to play there, and Anson had fined him $100. Thereupon he missed a train to Washington--arrived on the grounds after the teams had practiced and just in time to play, and for that Anson fined him another $100. The game that afternoon went eleven innings, Chicago scoring one run in the eleventh. There were two men out and a runner on the bases when "Kip" Selbach, then one of the hardest hitters in the business, smote the ball a terrific blow and sent it flying over Lange's head toward the center field fence. The ball seemed a sure home run, but Lange, a man weighing 225 pounds, turned and without looking sprinted desperately straight out toward the fence, racing with the flying ball. At the last instant, as the ball was going over his head, Lange leaped, stuck up both hands, turned a somersault and crashed against the fence. The boards splintered, one entire panel crashed outward, and out of the wreckage crawled Lange, holding the ball in his hand, and the crowd went mad. Lange came limping in, with the crowd standing on seats shouting, and he said to Anson, "Fines go, cap?" "Nope," said Anson, and the catch had saved the big fielder $200. *Hugh S. ## WASHINGTON COUNTY TO SEND LARGE DELEGATION TO STATE CONVENTION

Magnificent Program Prepared for Session of Sunday School Workers in Altoona.

INTEREST LOCALLY

Rev. Kerr, County Association President, Will Head Representation From This and Other Districts.

Washington county will in all probability send a large delegation to the 46th annual convention of the Pennsylvania State Sabbath School Association to be held at Altoona, from October 12 to 14 inclusive. Charleroi is expected to send nearly a dozen representatives from the different Sunday schools and this number will be swelled to much greater proportions from Washington, Monongahela, Donora and other districts.

Rev. G. G. Kerr, of Charleroi, the county Sabbath School president, will head the Washington county delegation, which will include 16 official representatives. Mrs. Mary L. Stewart, the county secretary, will attend.

Rev. Kerr who is in close touch with all matters pertaining to county and State Sunday school work, this morning expressed his opinion that the coming convention would be the greatest in the history of the State. A magnificent program has been prepared, among the speakers to be Rev. John F. Carson and S. Parker Cadman, Brooklyn pastors; Prof. Edward A. Seiner of Iowa, Hon. J. Frank Hanley, ex-Governor of Indiana, Mrs. Antonio Lamoreaux, a child study specialist, Marion Lawrence, general secretary of the International Sunday School Association, and Dr. S. Candem M. Cobern, noted teacher and discoverer, Allegheny college. All are persons of national and international reputation. Prof. E. O. Excell will be in charge of the musical part, and Alvin M. Roper will be the pianist. The convention will be rich in special features, among which will be conferences of various departments of Sunday School work.

The Charleroi Sunday Schools will likely appoint other delegates next Sunday or the Sunday following. Washington county is one of the leading Sunday School counties of the State, and has for sometime been one of two leading in the number of adult Bible classes. There are 17 Sunday School districts in the county.

Mrs. Elizabeth Kimmel

Word was received yesterday evening by Mrs. John Jennings of Washington avenue of the death of her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Kimmel, 84 years old, at her home in Indiana, Pa. The funeral will be held Wednesday, and Mrs. Jennings left this morning with her husband and sons to attend it. Besides the one daughter living here are three other daughters and one son living.

J. E. Hazlett and family are leaving tonight for Harrisburg to attend the funeral of his sister, Mrs. Edward V. Schreffer.

Bassoon Player in Noted Organization Visits Relatives in Charleroi.

C. Decker, a member of Sousa's Band, which is playing at Pittsburgh this week at the Pittsburgh Exposition, was a visitor in Charleroi over Sunday with his cousin, Peter Decker of 119 Fallowfield avenue. Mr. Decker plays the bassoon in the band. He comes from a family of musicians, and his cousin living in Charleroi is also somewhat of a musician. He plays the flute in the Methodist Episcopal orchestra, and has been a member of others of the best musical organizations of this vicinity. Mr. Decker went back to Pittsburgh yesterday morning to participate in the afternoon concert.

MARITAL WOES AIRED AT THE COUNTY SEAT

Desertion Claimed by Two Persons in Applying for Separation.

Troubles of four mismatched couples found their way into court yesterday. Two desertion cases, in which one of the libellants is the wife, and two reports of examiners in which the husbands complain, were filed. Alice Brooks of Washington alleges that her husband, George D. Brooks deserted her. They formerly lived in Charleroi. Nettie V. Beatty of East Pike Run alleges cruel treatment in the suit against her husband, A. P. Beatty. The report of the examiner was filed in the case of John W. Morris against his wife Mary Elizabeth Morris, alleging desertion, and the case has been placed on argument. William Bevard of Monongahela, has asked for a divorce from his wife Laura F. Bevard, now declared to be in Alabama. She is alleged to have become a religious fanatic thus causing trouble between herself and husband. The examiners' report was filed.

Had Disagreement

CRUSHED SKULL CAUSES DEATH OF BALL PLAYER

Captain of Monongahela Church League Penitent Winners Victim of Accident in Mills.

Charles Carazola a baseball player, 21 years old, of Monongahela, died yesterday at the Memorial hospital at that place as a result of injuries received three weeks ago at the Liggett Spring and Axle works at Axeltown. Carazola's skull was crushed by an axle while he was engaged in the discharge of his duties.

Carazola was captain and manager of the Catholic team of the Monongahela Church League, his team winning the championship. On Saturday the members of the league held a meeting and arranged for two benefit games to be played between the champion Catholic nine and an all star team to be picked from the other teams. His death has brought about a postponement of the arrangements. The funeral of the unfortunate young man will occur Wednesday and all of the players of the six teams, together with the league officials, will attend the funeral as a body. Carazola was a popular young man and his death has occasioned keen regret.

ELDORA TO CLOSE MONDAY AFTER SUCCESSFUL SEASON

Park Was Popular During Past Season Among Churches and Clubs for Picnics and Outings.

After a most successful season Eldora Park will close on Monday, September 26, six days hence. The park has had a very busy season this year, and the arrival of fall weather causing it to close is generally regretted by its large number of patrons.

This year there have been possibly more picnics and outings of various church and fraternal organizations than during any previous season, and the park has been one of the most popular resorts in this part of the county.

The closing events of the season will be the C. T. A. U. dance tonight, North Charleroi Fire Department's picnic on Wednesday, the Donora Fire Department's dance on Wednesday evening, the Friday and Saturday evening dances and the colored Knight's of Pythias picnic on Monday. Tom P. Sloan is the park manager and his assistant is Roy Sharpnack.

Who Wants a Job Teaching School?

Vacancy in First Primary Grade at Crest Avenue Building Unfilled.

There is a good job for somebody who wants to teach in the Charleroi schools. A few days ago the first primary grade of the Crest avenue schools was divided and another room put into use of the former Catholic building. This created a vacancy in the teaching corps. Miss Rosetta Rodgers of Fallowfield township was secured for the time being to fill in, and a teacher is to be elected as soon as there are some applicants. Miss Rodgers is substituting and the job is still open.

EXCITING RACE MEET PROMISED AT CARMICHAELS

Several Valley Horses Entered for Greene County Races This Week.

Indications are that the Carmichaels Fair this year will be greater than ever before in its history. The fair opens today and will continue for four days, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Racing as usual will be the feature, although the farm exhibits and industrial exhibits will claim considerable attention.

There will be three days of racing, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. There are a large number of entries from all parts of the country. Wednesday there will be two races, the 2:30 trot and the 2:27 pace, the purses being $300. Thursday there will be a 2:19 trot, a free for all pace, and a 2:28 pace for purses of $400, $350 and $400 respectively. Friday, for purses of $400, $400 and $350, there will be a 2:15 trot, a 2:15 pace and a 2:25 trot.

From this section have been entered the following horses in various events: "Joe," John Small, Belle Vernon. "Bessie Willis," I. C. McKay, of Fayette City; "Nunda," O. S. Hornsake, Coal Centre, "Buster," Clarence Luse, Belle Vernon; Prince Alcantara, M. H. Bamford, Donora, and "Perfection," J. G. Elliott, Brownsville.

FLINN TO BE ANGEL

Pittsburg Political Sharp May Aid New Movement if Not Too Much Afflicted With Cold Feet.

An article dated from the county seat published this morning in the Pittsburg Gazette Times states that when Senator Webster Grim, Democratic nominee for Governor of Pennsylvania, was at Washington last Thursday, campaigning, he was greeted at the railroad station by former Congressman Ernest F. Acheson, who makes some pretensions to being a Republican. That much has been printed. But the fact that Acheson led Mr. Grim aside and poured a tempting proposition into his ear is just now leaking out.

Acheson is moving heaven and earth to defeat the Republican party. He is now for the Keystone ticket, which has W. H. Berry at its head for Governor. Berry, however, is making a fizzle of his campaign and nobody understands this better than Acheson. That is why the latter urged upon Mr. Grim that the Democrats and Keystoneers get together. He suggested that if Grim and his party would act in harmony with the Keystone outfit there would be some chance of success.

He explained that efforts had been made to induce William Flinn of Pittsburgh to help out Berry and his outfit, but that Mr. Flinn didn't look on the game as a safe investment, as long as there are two anti-Republican tickets in the field. Mr. Flinn, however, intimated that his cold feet would get warm if a combination could be effected.

Mr. Acheson understood full well that Mr. Grim reiterated his position—that Grim would under no circumstances withdraw. Acheson, therefore, proposed that if Grim and his party would join with the Keystone people in supporting their candidate for United States Senator, whose name Acheson was careful not to disclose. Berry would be withdrawn and the Keystone party would turn in for Grim's candidacy.

Acheson explained that whatever was to be done must be done quickly, as the Keystone managers were about to complete their endorsements of candidates for the Legislature, arrange to finance their State campaign, etc., and besides, if Berry had to be taken down, the sooner this was accomplished the better. He added that if this deal could be brought about, while he was not authorized to speak for Flinn, he felt practically certain that the latter would come into the fight and help it along in his usual way. Something of this may be heard from Philadelphia during the week, as the Keystone bosses are conferring on the composition of their various tickets.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

“What makes me weary,” said a Charleroi citizen, “is the petty arguments some of the few detractors of John K. Tener are putting up as asking, ‘What has Tener ever done for Charleroi?’ If any one of them were to put the question to me I would point to the Macbeth-Evans chimney factory; to the Hussy-Binns shovel factory; to the Imperial bottle factory; to the old Bamford silk mill building, now used by the Macbeth-Evans people in the manufacture of auto and lamp lenses; to the car barn of the Pittsburgh Railway company; to the Monessen bridge; to the West-side Street car line; to the church buildings in town; to the magnificent bank buildings, and to the prosperous condition of the town of Charleroi generally, to all of which Mr. Tener contributed money, time and energy to promote or to bring here, in company with other broad minded citizens—not the few who are doing petty knocking now I could also name many successful business men in the town whom Mr. Tener helped and aided over in times of financial stress in his capacity as a banking officer, when if the strict rules of banking had been applied these men would have gone under. These are some of the things John K. Tener has done for Charleroi and the community around it. Mr. Tener does not herald this to the four winds, but its neighbors and friends know it, and that is why he gets such overwhelming support from his home town, for which he has been actively identified in every moment for the public uplift.

“In answer to the question, ‘What did Tener do in Congress?’ I would reply that in his single term in that body, as a member of the Rivers and Harbors committee, he worked assiduously for the project of canalizing the Ohio river, and the Government was committed during his term to a policy of prosecuting and completing this work in twelve years' time, a policy for which those interested in inland water ways improvement had labored years previously in vain, and which will keep the river miner working 12 months instead of 4 or 6. This was accomplished chiefly through the efforts of the Rivers and Harbors committee. At the special session of Congress called to revise the tariff Mr. Tener was instrumental in getting the duty increased on small sizes of plate glass, thereby permitting the Pittsburgh Plate Glass company and all other manufacturers of the product to compete with the Belgian product. This alone directly benefits every man, woman and child in Charleroi, as conditions, when the Charleroi Plate Glass factory was idle six or seven months a couple of years ago, are of too recent occurrence to be remembered with comfort. In addition Mr. Tener worked hard in the interests of the Washington county wool growers' association, who sent a committee to the national capital to protest against the attempt to break down their industry. In the matter of direct accomplishment for the good of his district, and the whole country generally, Mr. Tener accomplished infinitely more than usually falls to the lot of a novice in Congress.

“I wanted a study table for the children this winter,” said a Charleroi woman recently, “and the natural thing that suggested itself was a mission library table. When I priced these articles and found that they cost anywhere from $20 up to $30 for a modest appearing piece, I began to devise ways and means to satisfy my wants for less money. Finally I purchased an ordinary kitchen table at one of the local furniture stores for $2. It had an unpainted top 26 by 42 inches, but it stood solidly and was large enough for the purpose. Then I bought a 30 cent can of Chi-Namel mission stain, and with a brush loaned me by a neighbor, painted the table a couple of coats. Next I bought another 30 cent can of polishing wax, and with some fine sand paper rubbed the top of the table until it was smooth as glass. Then I applied a couple of coats of the polish, rubbing it in well with a cloth. Now I have as nice a mission table as you can see anywhere, the only difference being that it does not have square legs. It's the thing for the children to sit around and study their lessons even ings, and it only cost $2.60, not counting labor, which was not arduous.”

“I wonder if school teachers have any idea how they load us up with work,” said a lad who attends a near by academy, a day or two ago. “After giving us our schedule of studies the professor made the customary spiel of how much home study we should devote, so many hours to each one, and when he was through one of the boys who kept tab just for curiosity, discovered that if we gave a devoted time to each study we would put it twenty-six and a half hours a day. Now we more than ever realize that the ‘prof’ is articulating through his headgear when he gives us a spiel about devoting all our spare time to study.”

BURNS, CUTS, BRUISES

San Cura Ointment Stops Pain at Once, Draws Out all Poisons, and Heals Promptly

In all the world there is no ointment, no liniment, no remedy for burns, cuts and bruises that can compare with the antiseptic ointment called San Cura.

Every person ought to have a jar on hand, it is the first and best aid to the injured in case of accident, and is the ideal remedy for so many other distressing and painful ailments besides.

For example; it is guaranteed by W. F. Hennings to cure itching, bleeding and protruding piles, eczema, tetter, ulcers, salt rheum, boils, carbuncles and pimples, or money back.

In case of old or running sores, no matter how long standing, a few poultices of San Cura ointment will draw out every particle of poison, and leave it in such a thoroughly antiseptic condition that the sore will heal, never to break open again.

We advise every reader to get a jar of San Cura ointment today and keep it ready for an accident or emergency that may happen. 25 cents and 50 cents at W. F. Hennings or the money back plan.

SOAP FOR THE SCALP.

San Cura Soap is delightful for shampooing, because it is full of antiseptic properties that banish the germs of dandruff and other impurities from the scalp. It cures pimples and blackheads too. 25 cents a cake at Hennings.

THE DIAMOND CUTTER.

His Skill Has Much to Do With the Brilliance of the Gem.
When the expert looks at a diamond he can tell you in a moment where it came from and when he knows its true color or some years ago. He knows by its color whence it comes, for the color of the Brazilian diamond differs from that of the South African, and even in South Africa different colors are found in different mines.

In the rough the diamond has little brilliancy, for there is a crust that must be cut away before it can properly reflect the light, and it is this power of refraction which makes the brilliancy of a diamond and has everything to do with its value in the market. The skill of the diamond cutter has much to do with bringing out this brilliancy. He must do the most he can with the rough stone before him and lose as little as possible of the precious weight in the stone.

Diamonds are found in all kinds of queer shapes for the carbon may be in any position while being crystallized, and the act of crystallization may affect only parts of that carbon. When the expert cutter has a rough diamond before him he judges almost instantly how it will cut to the greatest advantage. If it inclines to the new shape he will make a pear-shaped diamond of it. If it be square a round the cutting will follow the natural lines as closely as possible, so that the loss may be reduced to a minimum.

To make the stone as brilliant as possible the diamond cutter cuts many facets so as to refract the light from as many points as he can. A full cut brilliant has at least forty-eight facets and so expert are the cutters that they often cut diamonds so small that it requires a hundred to weigh a carat. Each has forty-eight facets.—Cleveland Plain Dealer

FILIAL DUTY.

An Example From the Chinese of a Good Little Boy.

In China the “Book of Filial Duty” has been employed to instruct the young for the last 2,500 years. In it are twenty-four examples for good boys. What these examples are like may be understood from the story of Wu Meng, example No. 20. Wu Meng it seems, was very obedient to his parents. One day at the age of eight he noticed with pain that the mosquitoes annoyed his parents while they were trying to sleep. Presently he hit upon a plan to rescue them.

Some time ago of this classic “The Book of the Mosquitoes sounds like ‘gung ying,’ and their united hum is almost equal to thunder. His tired parents are reclining on their bed, their countenances already sunk in slumber. Legions of mosquitoes fiercely attack them, alternately retreating and advancing. The insects disturb the dreaming sleepers, and with annoyance they toss from side to side.

“Wu sees them sucking his parents' blood, which causes his heart to grieve. His flesh, he thinks, can be easily pierced but that of his parents is hard to penetrate. Lying on the bed, he threw off his clothes, and soon, feeling the pain of their attacks, he cried, ‘I have no dread of you, nor have you any reason to fear me!’ “Although I have a fan, I will not use it, nor will I strike you with my hand. I will be very quiet and let you gorge to the full!”

Thus did the parents of Wu Meng get a chance to sleep in peace.

First Wheel Clock.

Some say that Archimedes made the first wheel clock as early as 200 B. C. Others give credit to Waldford, who lived so late as the beginning of the fourteenth century. But the most perfect water clock was long before the latter period furnished with wheels so that the only improvement was the substitution of a sand-bell to act as a moving weight instead of water. It is not to be wondered at that the application of a weight to clocks as a moving power should attract so little attention, as water and sand were undoubtedly thought more convenient by contemporary writers. The oldest complete clock moved by weights is probably that sent by the sultan of Turkey to Frederick II. in 1232. In the thirteenth century many of the church steeples in Italy were furnished with clocks moved by weights, which struck the hours. Hele of Nuremberg is supposed to have constructed the first watch in 1500 and to him must also be given the credit of the spring clock. The fusee was probably invented in England about the end of the sixteenth century. But it was not until the middle of the seventeenth century that the pendulum was first applied to clocks by Huyghens.

The Origin of the “Marseillaise.”

In the reign of terror under Feron and Barras, when hundreds of victims were carried by the guillotine and the people rose against the aristocracy, was born the hymn of France, composed by Rouget de Lisle. He was an officer of engineers and at a banquet was asked to compose a war song. He wrote it in his room that night before going to bed, and the next morning his hostess, the wife of the mayor of Strasbourg, tried it on a piano, and in the afternoon the orchestra of the theater played it in the square of Strasbourg, where it created much excitement and gathered many volunteers. It was used as a song for the Army of the Rhine, but subsequently it was sung by a regiment of volunteers, mostly assassins, who marched out of Marseilles to Paris where it was appropriated by the capital and called the “Hymne des Marseillais.” But Joseph Rouget, the author, died in poverty.—Deshler Welch in Harper's Magazine.

HYOMEI FOR CATARRH

Besides breathing through the inhaler a few times a day, many catarrh sufferers writes that they find inhaling Hyomei, pronounce it Hig-ome, from a bowl of steaming water each night before retiring a great aid in curing stubborn cases.

Fill a bowl half full of boiling water; pour into the water a teaspoonful of Hyomei, cover head and bowl with a towel, and breathe through nose and mouth the pleasant, medicated, antiseptic and healing vapor that arises.

This method relieves that stuffiness at once and makes your head feel fine.

You can get a bottle of Hyomei at Piper Bros. and druggists everywhere for only 50 cents. Ask for extra bottle Hyomei Inhalant.

But bear in mind that Hyomei outfit which includes inhaler and bottle of Hyomei costs $1.00.

Hyomei is guaranteed by Piper Bros. and druggists everywhere to cure catarrh, sore throat, coughs, colds, asthma and croup, or money back. Try it on that generous basis.

Lines of Fight ARE NOW DRAWN

Candidate Tener, With a United Party, Defying a Confused and Whipped Enemy

MEASLY PRICE FOR VOTES

The "Holler Than Thou" Fellows Would Buy the Prohibition Voters at 20 Cents Per Head—Facts For the Farmers.

While the gubernatorial campaign in Pennsylvania has just fairly started the lines along which the contest will be fought have been drawn distinctly and there seems absolutely no question as to the overwhelming victory of John K. Tener and his associates on the regular Republican ticket. Even his opponents have not attempted to conceal the enthusiasm with which Mr. Tener has been received by the voters in those sections of the State in which he has visited since the formal opening of the contest at Charleroi, his home town, about three weeks ago. He has already firmly established himself in the affections of his party followers in every section of the State and his every appeal has been to the sane and sensible judgment of the voters. He has proven himself big from every possible viewpoint. He has pledged himself and his administration to good government and a continuation of the policies which have made the administration of Governor Edwin S. Stuart one of the very best Pennsylvania has ever had. Mr. Tener has appealed unselfishly for a continuation in State and nation of the Republican policy of Protection and Prosperity and he has already developed the very important fact that there is less strife in the Republican ranks in the pending campaign than there has been in any State contest in a decade. There is, of course, in all parties a certain element which regards party lines at least carelessly. That condition is neither strange nor important. It is a fixed condition. It is only fair to assume that as a condition it is neither larger nor smaller this year than it was in the last gubernatorial campaign in this State. If there has been any change it must be accounted as being smaller. In that campaign Governor Stuart polled as the regular Republican candidate 501,818 votes and Lewis Emery, Jr., his opponent, the candidate of five different parties and representing by those parties the combined policies of all the elements not in harmony with the policies and principles of the regular Republican party, just 458,654 votes. In the pending contest the five parties contributing their full and united force to Mr. Emery have five candidates. Not any of those parties is at war with the candidates, the policies or the principles of the regular Republican candidates but all of them are at war, and a grim war it is, with the candidate, the policy and the party management of the regular Democratic party which in the Stuart-Emery campaign contributed 391,747 of the total vote cast for Mr. Emery. With the Republican party standing in unbroken column behind its justly popular candidates and facing an enemy engaged in a guerrilla warfare upon itself, with extermination the well known and well defined purpose, the final outcome in the contest cannot be justly made a matter of even friendly dispute. W. H. Berry, the candidate of the Keystone or Keyhole or Keystone party, made up exclusively of the "holler than thou" fellows, is going hither and thither, up and down the State, parading his personal grievances and deploring the awful fact that he was beaten out of the Democratic nomination for Governor by the delegates to the Allentown convention. His managers have been caught red handed, in a blundering effort to bribe the candidate of the Prohibition party to retire from the contest and give to the really and wholly honest Berry the votes of the Prohibition party. The bribe offered by the "holler than thou" fellows to the Prohibition candidate amounted to $5,000. In the Stuart-Emery campaign, the Prohibition party polled 24,792 votes and with the cold cash, begged about and contributed to advance the cause of general righteousness, the evident purpose was to buy these 24,792 votes at the munificent sum of twenty and one-half cents per head, certainly a rather shabby estimate to put upon voters of any grade and a ridiculously low price to offer for members of a party which stood for a principle long before the "holler than thou" fellows deserted the parties which had originally catapulted them into the limelight. On the other hand, Webster Grim, the candidate of the regular Democratic organization, through well sustained fear of being the third man in the race, finds it necessary as he moves about the State to assault every other candidate and the policies and principles they represent and in his campaign of vilification and abuse he is seeing to it that no regular organization Democrat shall lend himself to the advancement of the ambitions of Candidate Berry whom Grim denounces as arrogant, selfish and interested only as a professional place hunter.

In the meantime, Mr. Tener's dignity is commending him to all the voters. He is standing for his party and upon his party's platform. He shares with the people generally absolute confidence in Governor Stuart's administration and he is pledging himself on every possible occasion to give to the State a duplicate of the administration which has been conspicuously successful.

In a recent speech at Allentown, Mr. Tener, among other interesting things, was addressing himself directly to the farmers:

"I know the reason why the Republican party should not continue to be a party is that it has revealed the situation to you. You will remember that it is very much as it is to you. There are those who are attacking me today just as they attacked Governor S. Stuart, but I am glad to see the history of the administration. I have left them no ground to stand upon. I trust that in the event of the election of this ticket that in the performance of our duties we will be able to set up in some degree to the standard set by Governor Stuart."

"In all the departments of the State the administration has served faithfully, energetically and fearlessly for the benefit of the whole people, and it will be my purpose in the event of my election to pursue that same policy and to enlarge upon it and to better it, if possible."

"I think it is time for Pennsylvania not to be considered among the first States of the Union, but to be considered the very first State of our Union."

Mr. Tener realizes that he is a good citizen of a great State. The other candidates seem determined to convince the world that they are great citizens in a very measly commonwealth.

At the Allentown meeting Congressman Reynolds, the Republican candidate for Lieutenant governor, said to the farmers:

"I have here a little table which I think is worth reading to you, taken from the records of the Bureau of Labor at Washington. It says that a bushel of corn in 1897 would purchase 7 pounds of sugar; now it will purchase 16 pounds of sugar; 12 years ago a bushel of corn would purchase 5 gallons of illuminating oil now it will purchase 11 gallons. Expressed in purchasing value of coffee in 1897 a bushel of corn would purchase 3 pounds of coffee, and now it will purchase 1 pound; a bushel of corn in 1897 would purchase 18 pounds of barbed wire with which to fence the farm; today it will purchase 33 pounds. Since the farmer owes this prosperous condition to the policies of the Republican party why should he vote against the Republican ticket?"

That, indeed, is a very pertinent question and many others arise from the Republican candidates are asking themselves the same manner of questions.

RACE WAGERS IN INDIA.

Native's Method of Choosing a Winner and Making Bets.

The native of India wagers his money according to the colors worn by the jockeys and takes no account of the merits of the horses, or he will back a horse ridden by his favorite jockey, no matter whether the animal is a rank outsider or not.

His ideas of gambling, in fact, are distinctly novel. Some of the more wealthy Indians form rings and back every horse in the race, thus gaining the satisfaction of getting a winner every time. It is really only of late years that the native of India has become a habitual gambler on the turf and nowadays the bulk of the betting of the various racing centers in India is done by natives. Indeed, the authorities are somewhat concerned about the growth of the betting which takes place among Indian natives, it being asserted that as many as thirty lakhs of rupees (about $2,000,000) is lost and won in the course of a season.

The ignorant masses have not a great deal of actual money to wager, but so badly bitten are many of them with the craze for betting at race meetings that they frequently wager what little property they possess on a horse, and if they lose they either mortgage their loss by pledging a neighbor's goods. The consequence is that when the racing season comes around the police are kept very busy dealing with cases of petty larceny and other crimes involving loss of property.—London Tit-Bits.

Knights Actors.

It is an odd fact that of the English actors knighted all but one had first to legalize the names under which they had won fame. The question arose with the first proposition to confer knighthood on a gypsy. It would be absurd so to honor one John Henry Brodribb. Yet legally no such person as "Henry Irving" existed. No such obstacle had to be overcome when, on the occasion of Victoria's diamond jubilee, Squire Lancroft knelt before his queen and arose sir squire. However, the three actors knighted by King Edward bore cognomens of their own invention. Sir Charles Wyndham was born Culverwell, and Sir John Hare, Fairs. As for Sir Herbert Beer, born Tree, his brilliant wife once put it "Tree is a fantastic thing we just tacked on. We're all plain Beerbohms—plain as brother Max"—Argonaut.

The Old English Prize Ring.

In the latter days of the English prize ring innumerable expedients had to be devised to bring off a fight. A favorite plan was to pitch the ring on the borders of two counties, so that the question of magisterial jurisdiction might be rendered difficult. Another plan was to charter a steamboat and proceed down the Thames to some lonely police forsaken spot in the marshes of Essex. For the memorable contest between Sayers and Beaman in 1890 a special train was run from London bridge to a secret destination. But the passengers, who comprised members of parliament, peers, pick pockets, pugilists, clergy and, it is said, a few bishops, cheerfully took tickets simply marked "excursion." They presently found themselves near Farnborough, in Surrey, where the fight occurred.—London Chronicle.

London's Big Ben.
Why is the large bell in the tower of the house of parliament in London called Big Ben? The average Londoner himself says he has no idea how it got its name. When the building was designed Sir Benjamin Hall had a great deal to do with carrying out the plans of the architects, being high commissioner of public works, and his coworkers appreciated the fact that to him the city of London was largely indebted. So when the question came up in parliament as to the name of the enormous bell that was to be hung in the tower a member shouted, "Why not call it Big Ben?" This suggestion was received with much applause as well as with roars of laughter, for Sir Benjamin was an enormous man, both in height and girth, and had often been called Big Ben. From that day on the bell whose peal every Londoner knows has been known only as Big Ben.---Harper's Weekly.

Mighty in Titles.
The ruler of Turkey, in addition to the titles sultan and kha-khan (high prince and lord of lords), also claims sovereignty over most districts, towns, cities and states in the orient, specifying each by name and setting out in each of his various titles "all the fortifications, palaces and neighborhood thereof" in regular legal form. His official designation ends, "Sovereign also of diverse nations, states, peoples and races on the face of the earth." All this is in addition to his high position as "head of the faithful" and "supreme lord of all the followers of the prophet." "Direct and only lieutenant on earth of Mohammed."

Landman and Sailor.
To the landman the sea must always possess dangers that to the sailor appear only as casual phenomena upon which to exercise his skill. The prayer book has a special petition for the safety of those who go down to the sea in ships, and every one who ventures to leave the shore goes forth with a consciousness of awe at his own daring. Yet in the intricate complexity of modern civilization, safety on land and safety at sea have nothing by no means with equal step. Every morning brings us some story of death or accident at land, while the great passenger ships come and go in more or less regularity, bringing no reports more stirring than those of high seas that have kept them from making new records. With the present madness for speed and its attendant recklessness, our streets demand constant alertness if one would cross them with safety. Speed at sea has come through larger and more stoutly constructed ships. So the familiar old story of the sailorman at sea in a storm who, serene in his consciousness of ample sea room, calmly observed "God help the poor folks ashore tonight!" is not wholly fantastic. L. Frank Tooker in Century.

Sardou's Quip.
"Victorian Sardou hated shame," said a New York theatrical manager. "If you tried to impose on him he would call you down."
"At the Ambigu during a rehearsal he said he doubted an actor's statement that he had given forty hours of study to his lines."
"You doubt me?" said the actor hotly. "I assure you, M. Sardou, I have never lied but twice in my life."
"Sardou smiled dryly."
"Then this makes thrice, eh?" asked he."

BILL LANGE'S FEAT.

One of the Famous Old Outfielder's Sensational Catches.

The greatest individual feat ever performed was one by which Bill Lange saved a game for Chicago and $200 for himself in Washington in 1885. There is an old story connected with the play. Lange had missed a train in Boston two days before, failed to reach New York in time to play there, and Anson had fined him $100. Thereupon he missed a train to Washington--arrived on the grounds after the teams had practiced and just in time to play, and for that Anson fined him another $100. The game that afternoon went eleven innings, Chicago scoring one run in the eleventh. There were two men out and a runner on the bases when "Kip" Selbach, then one of the hardest hitters in the business, smote the ball a terrific blow and sent it flying over Lange's head toward the center field fence. The hit seemed a sure home run, but Lange, a man weighing 225 pounds, turned and without looking sprinted desperately straight out toward the fence, racing with the flying ball. At the last instant, as the ball was going over his head, Lange leaped, stuck up both hands, turned a somersault and crashed against the fence. The boards splintered, one entire panel crashed outward, and out of the wreckage crawled Lange, holding the ball in his hand, and the crowd went mad. Lange came limping in, with the crowd standing on seats shouting, and he said to Anson, "Fines go, cap?" "Nope," said Anson, and the catch had saved the big fielder $200.---Hugh S. Fullerton in American Magazine.

Party's Fate on One Vote.

Instances are common enough in elections when a single vote turns the scale, but for that vote to decide not only the fate of a candidate, but of a party as well, is rare. Yet a majority of one in parliament, which may logically depend on a majority of one in the country, has worked some of the most momentous results possible. The classical example is the act of union of 1799, certainly among the largest, most important and most remarkable changes ever accomplished by a legislative body. One hundred and six voted for it and 105 against. Then a majority of one carried the great reform bill in 1832.

Majorities only a little bigger have again and again been responsible for far-reaching consequences. A majority of five threw out the Melbourne government in 1839. By the same figure Lord John Russell's government was defeated in 1896. Gladstone went out of office in 1873 because he lacked three votes, and the public education act, one of the most important ever passed, was placed on the statute book by a majority of two.—London Chronicle.

Wild Dogs of Asia.

The whole tribe of wild dogs, which in closely allied forms are to be found in the wildest jungles and woods of Asia, from the Himalayas to Ceylon and from China to the Taurus—unless the "golden wolves" of the Roman empire are now extinct in the forests of Asia Minor—show an individual and corporate courage which entitles them to a high place among the most daring of wild creatures. The "red dogs" to give them their most characteristic name, are neither large in size nor do they assemble in large packs. Those which have been from time to time measured and described seem to average some three feet in length from the nose to the root of the tail. The pack seldom numbers more than nine or ten, yet there is sufficient evidence that they are willing and able to destroy any creature that inhabits the jungle, except the adult elephant and perhaps the rhinoceros, creatures whose great size and leathery hide make them almost invulnerable to such enemies as dogs.—London Spectator.

Who Got the Baby?

Once upon a time a crocodile stole a baby and was about to make a dinner of it. The frantic mother begged so piteously for the child that the crocodile said:

"Tell me one truth and you shall have your baby again."

The mother replied, "You will not give him back to me."

"Then," said the crocodile, "by our agreement I shall keep him, for if you have told the truth I am not going to give him back, and if it is a lie I have also won."

But the mother said, "If I told you the truth you are bound by your promise, and if it is not the truth it will not be a lie until you have given me my child."

There Should.

Fritz, the gardener, was a stolid German who was rarely moved to extraordinary language. Even the most provocative occasions only caused him to remark mildly on his ill luck. Not long ago he came back from the city in the late evening after a hard day in the market place. He was sleepy, and, the train being crowded, the baggage man gave him a chair in his roomy car.

Finally the train reached Bloomfield. Fritz still slept as it pulled in, and his friend had to shake him and tell him where he was.

"I thank you," said Fritz as he rose slowly to his feet. The open door of the car was directly in front of him. He walked straight out of it.

The baggage man sprang to look after him. Fritz slowly picked himself up from the sand by the side of the track, looked up at the door and said, with no wrath in his voice:

"There should here be some steps."

—Forth's Companion.

A Wonderful Feat.

In its review of Pierre de Vassiere's book "Le Mort du Roi" the Nieuwe Nachrichten dwells upon the account of the last seven minutes of Louis XVI, as described in the book. These were between 10:15, when the king arrived at the foot of the guillotine, and 10:22, "when a shot fired at the end of the Champs Elysees, no one knows by whom, gave notice that the head had fallen." The review calls attention to the statement by the author that the king's hands had been pined behind him by the executioner while Louis was putting on the coat which he was to wear at the end and that when he reached the platform of the instrument of death he rushed unassisted to the upright farthest from the stairway, "slapping the face of one of the assistant executioners who tried to stop him." With hands fastened at his back, the reviewer asks, "How did the doomed monarch manage to perform the operation?"

The Twenty Cent Ravens.

She was in a very bad temper as she boarded an Amsterdam avenue car. Her temper was not improved by the fact that as she drew a quarter of a dollar from her jeweled gold purse the coin slipped from her fingers and rolled on the floor of the car. She made no move to recover the money, but when the conductor came in to collect her fare she pointed with the tip of her handsome parasol to the coin.

"I dropped my fare," she said snappishly. "Pick it up."

The young conductor looked her in the eye for just a moment, and then, stooping, he picked the coin from between the seats on the floor coverings. Leisurely he took four nickels from his pocket and put them where the quarter had been before. Maybe it was the effort of bending that made his face red. When he straightened up he rang up the fare, turned and sauntered back to the rear platform.—New York Press.

Couldn't Hear Them.

"I've been worried about my hearing for some time," said a local banker, who tells the story on himself, "and finally the fear of getting deaf became a sort of obsession to me, and I decided to go over to New York to consult a specialist. I got over there and went to see the doctor, and he looked so grave I was more scared than ever, and I was feeling pretty blue as I walked down Fifth avenue with a friend.

"Suddenly I saw two 'special trolleys' coming down a cross street filled with children waving flags and apparently having an awfully good time, but I couldn't hear a sound. In an instant, with my stopping to realize that I could hear all the other noises of the traffic and my friend's voice, I turned around and seized him by the arm and shouted:

"Heavens, Jo, I'm deaf! I can't hear those children at all."

"Neither can I," said my friend, with a roar of laughter. They're mutes."—Philadelphia Times.

The Rod and the Child.

I do not believe in the government of the lash. If any one of you ever expects to whip your children again I want you to have a photograph taken of yourself when you are in the act, with your face red with vulgar anger and the face of the little child, with eyes swimming in tears and the little chin dimpled with fear, like a piece of water struck by a sudden cold wind. Have the picture taken. If that little child should die I cannot think of a sweeter way to spend an autumn afternoon than to go out to the cemetery when the maples are clad in tender gold and little scarlet runners are coming, like poems of regret, from the sad heart of the earth and sit down upon the grave and look at that photograph and think of the flesh, now dust, that you beat. I tell you it is wrong; it is no way to raise children. Make your home happy. Be honest with them. Divide fairly with them in everything.—Robert G. Ingersoll.

If You Wish to Be Popular—

Don't contradict people even if you are sure you are right.

Don't be inquisitive about the affairs of even your most intimate friend.

Don't understate anything because you don't possess it.

Don't believe that everybody else in the world is happier than you.

Don't declare that you have never had any opportunities in life.

Don't believe all the evil you hear.

Scour the Irons.

One point in which the novice in ironing often fails lies in not having the irons perfectly clean before beginning work. To do really good work begin by scouring the irons thoroughly with soap and water; then dry thoroughly with a soft rag. They must not be dried on the fire, as this creates an immediate rust, which works of on the clothes.

TEDDY TURNED DOWN BERRY MEN

Keystone Political Game That Failed to Work.

ROOSEVELT JOLTED BOLTERS

Former President, Instead of Aiding Insurgents, Lauded Administration by Pennsylvania Republicans.

Probably the most disappointing incident of the state campaign to the managers of the Keystone Party was the failure of Roosevelt to comply with their request and make some reference in his Pittsburgh speech to Pennsylvania political conditions that would aid the Berry candidacy for governor.

A special committee of Kerstoners was organized to meet with the ex-president as soon as he arrived and urge him to directly or indirectly help their cause in his speech. The committee got a complete turn down.

They quickly learned that Roosevelt was not going to be a party in any way to help along the campaign of a Democrat for governor of the stalwart Republican Keystone State.

He was perfectly familiar with Berry's free silver and Bryanite record before the Keystone committee-men broached the subject, and not only did they get absolutely no encouragement from Teddy, but he gave them a body blow when he did make his speech by lauding the record of the Republican party in this state.

Mayor William A. Magee, who is at the head of the Republican organization of Allegheny, and upon whom devolved the duty of making the speech of presentation to the great Pittsburgh audience, was, with other stalwart Republicans upon the platform, greatly elated over the utterances of Roosevelt upon that occasion.

In touching upon Pennsylvania conditions, the former president in part said:

"And now, friends, in closing, I want to call your attention to the fact that there is not anything at all to be depressed about in present conditions in America. We have got lots of good to our credit."

"You have some admirable laws on the statute books here in Pennsylvania. Take the way that you care for your schools—your compulsory law—your appropriations for the schools—so that every boy and girl in Pennsylvania can get an education. And now, you are administering that law so that their parents and nobody else can cheat them out of the education. You have on the statute books the eight-hour law as regards the employees of the government. You have laws prohibiting child labor and minimizing the number of hours and regulating the labor of women—laws that have not in the past been always executed as they should be, but which I think are steadily being better executed, from all that I can hear."

"You have made excellent forestry laws in connection with your forests and waters. It is a great sum of positive achievement of which you should be proud. But it is better not to be proud of it than to feel that, because you have done pretty well, you are therefore to be expunged from doing anything more. Do not forget that you won't stand still. If you do not go forward you will slip backward. Now, so it is about America as a whole."

These words of recognition of the splendid administration of the affairs of the commonwealth under Republican officials were sincerely and earnestly spoken.

"There is no reason whatever why Mr. Berry should receive a single Republican vote in this campaign," says the Scranton Truth. "He was an eager seeker for the Democratic nomination and is now a candidate because he didn't get it. In the dispute between William J. Bryan and Colonel Guffey, when the Nebraska tried to eliminate the latter from Pennsylvania control, Berry sided with Bryan and showed himself an enthusiastic supporter of the Bryan brand of national Democratic politics. Although it is now well known that he should have stood by Guffey in that contest."

"At no time has Mr. Berry manifested any friendly or Republican principles or policies in state or nation, and he is not, therefore, entitled to Republican support, however zealously he may masquerade as an 'independent.' He must not be permitted to sail under false colors. He is a Democratic bolter from the Allentown convention and a candidate because he failed to secure the nomination of that convention for governor."

"Mr. Berry's presence in the field can have no other result than the election of John L. Tener by the largest majority ever received by a Republican candidate for governor of Pennsylvania."

Citizens of Pennsylvania with a knowledge of what has been done by the Republican party and with the pledges of John K. Tener, the Republican nominee for governor, that he will seek to follow the policies and the methods of Edwin S. Stuart, it is predicted, are going to show their confidence and faith in the Republican party and its standard bearer by rolling up a great Republican majority at the election on Nov. 8.

CONVINCING PROOF

OF THE VIRTUE OF

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

What is the use of procrastinating in the face of such evidence as the following letters represent? If you are a sick woman or know one who is, what sensible reason have you for not giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial? For 30 years we have been publishing such testimonial letters as these—thousands of them—they are genuine and honest, too, every one of them.

Mrs. S. J. Barber says:

"I think Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the best medicine in the world for women—and I feel it my duty to let others know the good it has done for me. Three years ago I had a tumor which the doctor said would have to be removed by an operation or I could not live more than a year, or two, at most. I wrote Mrs. Pinkham at Lynn, Mass., for advice, and I took 14 bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and today the tumor is gone and I am a perfectly well woman. I hope my testimonial will be of benefit to others."—Mrs. S. J. BARBER, Scott, N. Y.

Mrs. George May says:

"No one knows what I have suffered from female troubles, neuralgia pains, and backache. My doctor said he could not give me anything to cure it. Through the advice of a friend I began to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and the pain soon disappeared. I continued its use and am now in perfect health. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been a God-send to me as I believe I should have been in my grave if it had not been for Mrs. Pinkham's advice and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. GEORGE MAY, 85 4th Ave., Paterson, N. J.

Mrs. E. F. Hayes says:

"I was under the doctor's treatment for a fibroid tumor. I suffered with pain, soreness, bloating, and could not walk or stand on my feet any length of time. I wrote to Mrs. Pinkham for advice, followed her directions and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Today I am a well woman, the tumor was expelled and my whole system strengthened. I advise all women who are afflicted with tumors or female troubles to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. E. F. HAYES, 1390 Washington St., Boston, Mass.

Mrs. W. K. Housh says:

"I have been completely cured of a severe female trouble by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and want to recommend it to all suffering women."—Mrs. W. K. HOUSH, 7 Eastview Ave., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Because your case is a difficult one, doctors having done you no good, do not continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It surely has cured many cases of female illness, such as inflammation, ulceration, displacements, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, etc.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

No Sense of Proportion.

The young man who had spent his efforts for several years without result in studying art was talking with his practical uncle, who had patiently paid the bills.

"Of course," said the young artist. "I know I haven't made much of a go of it, but I don't think you ought to advise me to try something else. You know it's best to put all your eggs in one basket and watch that basket."

"Um! That may be, Charlie; but did you ever think how foolish it is to put so many baskets around one basket egg?"

Her Awful Sin.

A little girl of six once went to great distress to her mother, saying that she had committed a sin which could never be forgiven and which was too bad to be repeated. By dint of a little coaxing she was induced to make a full confession, which was in this wise:

"I felt so sorry for poor Satan and wanted to give him a little comfort. So I got a glass of cold water and poured it down a little hole in the kitchen door."

BIG IMPROVEMENT TO M'KEAN AVENUE

Pool and Billiard Hall is Remodeled.

Another big improvement to Mc Kean avenue has recently been made at the Pool and Billiard Hall of H. L. Swickey.

Times are prosperous and things are moving fast in Charleroi.

The establishment of Mr. Swickey has in the past been conducted in a most up-to-date manner and has in consequence received a very large share of popular favor.

On this account the owner feels that it is due to his patrons that they receive the best that is in his power to provide and that his establishment be made as pleasant as possible, and thus add to the enjoyment and comfort of the players.

In line with this policy the Colonial Pool Parlor has been remodelled and redecorated. An even greater improvement is the redesigning of the lighting system. The hot and inefficient gas lights have been removed and electric lights will now be used exclusively. Over each table is suspended two modern Turgsten lamps of 80 candle power each and the Tungsten lamps are enclosed in handsome glass reflectors. These lamps are noted for the brilliancy and softness of the pure white light which they procure, and the reflectors throw a large proportion of the light on the tables.

This makes the installation an ideal one and is very popular with devotees of the cue.

The absence of shadows and the daylight effect add much to the enjoyment of the game and enable the players to use their greatest skill, free from any adverse condition of shadow or poor light.

At the front of the hall Mr. Swickey has an up-to-date cigar stand, shoe shine, and other stands, while a corner is partitioned to form a private office. This part of the hall is entirely remodelled. It is lit by clusters of electric lights that make this one of the cheeriest places in Charleroi. The bowling alleys in the basement have also received attention. Redecorated throughout and lit by electric lights of high brilliancy, electric fans blowing in streams of cool air, bowlers here find relief from the heat of the street while enjoying the pleasure of a friendly game.

Mr. Swickey deserves much credit for his enterprise in thus caring for the comfort of sport lovers and their appreciation is shown by the popularity of his establishment. 3741

NEWS FROM MAINE PLEASED BERRY

Gubernatorial Nominee Elated Over Democratic Victory.

HE ATTACKED TARIFF BILL

Independent Republicans Quit Keystone Party, Disgruntled With the Bryanite Outfit.

[Special Correspondence.]

Panama, Sept. 20. An exhibition of partisanship which startled and disgusted the few independent Republicans present was given by William H. Berry at a meeting in this city a few nights ago, when the Keystone Party nominee, unable to suppress his jubilation, spoke exultantly of "the good news from Maine."

Not only did he express intense gratification over the Democratic victory in the Pine Tree State, but he followed this up with an attack upon the Republican tariff and the Taft administration, which so incensed Republicans that the little coterie that were there left the hall, determined to have nothing further to do with his candidacy.

Yes, Berry had "heard the good news from Maine," and his old-time Democratic spirits were revived; he could not help but rejoice in a triumph for a party with which he fought for so many years. While he is a boisterous this year from the Guifey Democratic state organization, Berry still holds allegiance to the national Democracy, particularly to the Bryan wing of that party, for which at Denver he deserted Guifey for Bryan--Guifey who had done so much for him, nominated him and financed his campaign for state treasurer, and even though he was then getting $8000 a year salary from the state treasury, loaned him $15,000 upon collateral which when put up at public sale realized but $700, and then suit had to be entered in court in an effort to obtain payment of the balance, $14,300, with not a dollar's worth of interest paid upon the loan.

While Berry's ingratitude to Guifey is not a matter of public concern, and is not a factor in the present political campaign, Berry's adherence to the Democracy, his intense loyalty to the Bryan leadership, is the subject of widespread comment.

Could Not Stand Berry.

In this city, especially, Berry's nomination upon the independent ticket at once estranged thousands from that movement who might under certain conditions have been inclined to favor an independent Republican for governor. Others who at first declined to say what attitude they would take in the campaign, have since come out squarely in favor of the full Republican ticket.

This was the logical outcome of the revelations as to Berry's financial dealings with Guifey, followed by Berry's erratic course upon the stump, his flamboyant and rambling oratory culminating in his sensational and uncalled for attack upon the newspaper men of the state simply because they published the facts relating to his getting money from Guifey, the same Guifey who was himself a heavy borrower from banks in Pittsburgh holding state funds, of which Berry was the custodian for the taxpayers, and Berry's gratuitous insult to every Republican in his public felicitations with the triumphant Democrats of Maine and his denunciation of the framers of the new tariff act, in which the industrial, farming and business interests and the welfare of every wage earner of the Keystone State were safeguarded by the two Republican United States senators and all of the Republican members of the lower house from Pennsylvania.

Berry's admission at a public meeting here "that there was not a dollar in the treasury of the Keystone Party" simply emphasized the fact that substantial men, men of affairs, property owners and business men, to whom the importance of electing a safe and sane man to the governorship appeals most strongly, will have nothing to do with his candidacy or the hybrid combination of disappointed and cast-off politicians back of the Keystone Party.

Desertions on Every Side.

Berry talks and acts like a man who knows he has not got a chance to win the governorship. He admitted in his West Philadelphia speech last week that when he accepted the nomination he had no idea of being elected.

Developments since the Keystone ticket was put in the field all show that his candidacy has been constantly getting weaker rather than stronger.

Desertions of independent Republicans and Democrats from the Berry movement are noted every day. Resignations from Keystone Party committees are being announced on every hand, and newspapers which gave encouragement to his cause at the outset have since either turned in for Tanager, the Republican, or Grinn, the regular Democratic nominee.

While Berry still declares he is a Democrat, there are not a half dozen Democratic newspapers in the state now favoring his election, and there are about a like number of so-called independent newspapers for him.

Dalton's Experiment.

The English chemist Dalton was a schoolteacher. He worked without a laboratory and with crude apparatus, mostly made by himself from simple materials. Here is an example described in his own words:

"Took an ale glass of a conical figure, two and a half inches in diameter and three inches deep; filled it with water that had been standing in the room and consequently of the temperature of the air nearly; put the bulb of the thermometer to the bottom of the glass, the scale being out of the water. Then, having marked the temperature, I put the red-hot tip of the poker half an inch deep in the water, holding it there steadily for half a minute, and as soon as it was withdrawn I dipped the bulb of a sensible thermometer into the water, when it rose in a few seconds to 150 degrees."

He then determined the temperature of the water at the bottom after five minutes, after twenty minutes and after an hour and found that it rose gradually from 47 to 52 degrees. This simple experiment proved that water has the power to conduct heat, which had been denied by no less an authority than Rumford.--Youth's Companion.

A Pearl Stringer's Keen Eye.

The pearl stringer's eye becomes practiced in the detection of real and imitation pearls. One glance is usually sufficient. A genuine pearl has a hard look. It presents a sort of shell-like surface with an indescribable bluish tinge. This bluish is so cleverly counterfeited in wax imitations that even those who are accustomed to handling pearls day after day are likely to be deceived.

In one of the large New York jewelry houses last winter a customer purchased a hand painted miniature set in a frame of imitation pearls. On examination it was found that several of the pearls had been slightly defaced, and the whole thing was sent to the manufacturing rooms for repairs. By chance it came under the eye of one of the pearl stringers, who instantly detected four genuine pearls in the circle of imitation ones about the picture. The frame had passed through a dozen expert hands without any one's noticing the presence of real pearls. No one could account for their being there. If they had not been detected the purchaser of the frame would have had a bargain, for the four genuine pearls were worth many times more than the picture and the rest of its setting.--New York Tribune.

Fine Electrical Effect

For the illustrated song by Donald Garrison at the Palace Theatre last night, a beautiful electrical effect was arranged. The design was by R. L. Barnhart, the theatre owner and manager. A twilight glow was represented, with the singer seated by a fire place as though dreaming. It made a great hit with the large audience in attendance.

Mrs. Mary J. Lemon of Scio, O., and her son, Frederick Lemon of San Francisco, Cal., are visiting at the home of the former's daughter, Mrs. T. P. Sloan of North Charleroi.
